--DESCRIPTION OF THE PREFERRED EMBODIMENT--.

IN THE CLAIMS:

Add the following new claims:

Sub C1
--12. A computer readable medium embodying computer instructions for a process to automatically identify a document in a computer and for causing the computer to execute the steps of:

5 analyzing data of a document by performing at least one datum analysis according to a datum content or a datum position in the document to obtain at least one datum analysis result;

B6
10 obtaining a comparison result by comparing each datum analysis result to at least one document identification criteria, each identification criterion being defined by at least one of the content and the position of a datum characteristic of a document; and 15 characterizing data contained in the document based on the obtained comparison result.

5 --13. The computer readable medium of claim 12, wherein, when the obtained comparison result is negative, the medium comprises further instructions causing the computer to open a parametric window to define at least one new identification criterion datum associated with the document, the new criterion being memorized to identify thereafter any document having the new identification criterion datum.

5 --14. The computer readable medium of claim 13, wherein, the new identification criterion datum is defined by copying a datum of a text of the document serving as a new identification criterion reference datum toward the parametric window where the reference datum is copied and associated with its document position parameters.

5 --15. The computer readable medium of claim 12, wherein, when the obtained comparison results are positive, the medium comprises further instructions causing the computer to automatically copy the document into a memory of the computer according to a corresponding classification or classifications.--
